LARGE ATTENDANCE AT GOULD'S PARENTS' DAY

Gould Academy held its Third Annual Parents' Day on Saturday, Oct. 15, with a large number of parents of both day and boarding pupils in attendance. The largest crowd of the season saw a hard-fighting well-drilled Norway team defeat the Academy 6-0. After the football game parents were entertained at a tea in the Marian True Gehring Students' Home. Mrs. Philip Sayles and Miss Margery Bailey, Dean of Girls, poured and were assisted by various members of the Women's Faculty. Mary Buck and Beatrice Canwell of the Student Body also assisted. Arrangements for the tea were under the direction of Miss Sarah Staples, Matron of the Girls' Dormitory. At the same time, a Tea Dance for the student body of both schools was being held in the William Bingham Gymnasium with music furnished by the Gouldians, the Academy Swing Band, under the direction of Charles W. Combs of the Men's Faculty.

Throughout the afternoon various buildings were open for inspection with the following students serving as guides. At the Academy building, Mary Clough, Kathryn Davis, Virginia Davis, Helen Lowe, Maynard Austin, Irving Brown, Clayton Crockett, Richard Crockett and Philip Cummings; at the Marian True Gehring Students' Home, Gladys Clark, Elizabeth Field, Helen Gillis, Julia Kasregis, Mildred Kasregis, Anne Logofet; at Holden Hall, George Adams, Russell Bennett, Hartwell Blanchard, Herbert Foote, Henry Haley and John Larsen; at the Principal's Home, June Little and Barbara Lyon.

GOULD LOSES TO NORWAY

For the first time since Oct. 21, 1936, Gould Academy went down to defeat. On that day South Paris took the long end of a 12-6 score and since that game Gould has rolled along without a setback. The game Saturday marred the Academy's third annual Parents' Day festivities and to local fans proved quite a disappointment. The game throughout certainly had a decided tinge of Norway Blue, with the visiting team outgunning the Gould forward wall. Gould expecting another easy victory were unprepared mentally for what happened. A Gould fumble on the first play of the game set the stage for Norway's quick scoring pass which proved the only counter of the day. Norway was at its peak Saturday and Gould set up somewhat of a record "low" in its performance. A record in such manner that the

There were no stars on the visiting team but every man performed in such manner that the Norway eleven really elicited. The overconfident Gould team was set back on its heels on the opening play and could never get out of the hole.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN'S CLUB PARTY

It was a very gracious gesture on the part of Mrs. William Rogers Chapman to suggest entertaining all the enrolled members of the Bethel Women's Republican Club at her lovely spacious home before going South for the winter. The date set was Thursday evening, Oct. 13th, and the large number of women present were enthusiastic and deeply appreciative guests.

The program committee, consisting of Mrs. Chapman, Miss Gwendolyn Stearns, Mrs. S. S. Greenleaf and Mrs. Gerard Williams, presented a varied program with Miss Cleo A. Russell, club president presiding. There were words of welcome by the hostess; singing of "America;" a stately rendered instrumental selection, Robert Greenleaf, violin, Arlene Greenleaf, cello, with Barbara Hall, piano; also a pleasing vocal duet by Ida Lee Clough and Carolyn Wight. Interpersed were spirited remarks by distinguished visitors, Mrs. Frank Stowell of Dixfield, Mrs. Arthur Owen of Mexico, Mrs. James Kerr and Mrs. Fred Hanscom, Rumford.

Mrs. Chapman read with much expression several appropriate clippings and a clever satirical poem. Our newly elected representative, Gerard S. Williams, gave a particularly fine talk, stressing the history and importance of woman suffrage.

Mrs. Clarence Hall, Mrs. Joseph Maddocks, Mrs. Norman Sanborn and Miss Alice Capen, comprising the refreshment committee, served delicious special Halloween roll ice cream and cake.

It is a noteworthy fact that the Women's Republican Club of Bethel, under the tireless and efficient leadership of Miss Cleo Russell, is one of the largest and most active in the state. Its fine service has been recognized by high commendation from the State Organization.

RESOURCES MAINE SAVINGS BANKS HIGHEST IN HISTORY

Figures released by the State Banking Department showing condition of Savings Banks in Maine as of Sept. 24 give the total resources of the 32 mutual savings banks above $145,000,000, which is the highest total ever recorded by these banks, and also shows an increase in six months from last March of nearly one million dollars, according to Harry M. Nelson, Executive Manager of The Savings Banks Association of Maine.

Mr. Nelson further stated that figures compiled by the National Association of Savings Banks last July showed that the percentage of reserves to deposits of these banks in Maine showed that the Pine Tree Banks stood fourth highest in all the United States where mutual savings banks were located, the only states showing any higher percentage being Delaware, Indiana and New York.

Further figures indicate that the average deposit of the 237,000 Maine people who have accounts in these banks is just above $440, with a total deposit of nearly $127,000,000.

The Third Big Thing

By SUSAN FELDMAN
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Service.

UNTIL now only two exciting things had come into Anna Kearn's twenty-two years of life. Both occurred when she was only seventeen, a senior at high school. Anna had been the plainest and quietest girl in her class. She wasn't even "least popular." She just wasn't noticed. Her hair hung down her back in a heavy braid. Her clothes were severely cut. She spoke to no one first, and when others tried to make friends with her, her painfully forced manner led them to believe that she did not desire their friendship.

Nevertheless, Anna delighted in looking at her pretty classmates, and she was afflicted with an almost fanatical worship of Don Roberts, the football hero and the most popular boy in school.

One day Anna became ill. It was not a serious illness but kept her in bed for a week. In her room at home Anna was a changed person. Here she was a princess cast into a dungeon because she would not marry for a powerful, cruel king but remained true to her poor knight. Here she was all in all. In her room

SHORT SHORT STORY

Complete in This Issue

she let her hair fall loosely to her shoulders. It softened her face and lent a lovely glow to her cheeks and eyes.

One afternoon, as she lay in bed gazing through the open window at the blue skies, she heard voices in the yard below.

Anna sat up and looked eagerly at the door. Slowly it opened and a cheerful voice said: "Your mother told me to come right up. I've come to visit you and bring you something."

Don Roberts, the high school hero! He had come to visit her! In that moment her hero worship turned into something deeper and finer, and she welcomed him with pleasure and surprise. Don was quite as startled as she, but only because she looked so pretty.

"Gosh, Anna," he said, "you look awfully pretty with your hair down like that, and everything."

Then, suddenly, he remembered something. With a half-smile and half-puzzled look on his face, he drew a small candy box out of his pocket. Then he grinned and said: "Here, Anna, is something some of the fellows elected me to bring to you. I hope you'll like it."

Anna thrilled with the laughter in his eyes. No one had ever before been so kind to her. Her eyes flashed with delight and her fall was complete.

"For me?" she asked. So she took the box, opened it quickly, and gazed petrified at its contents: a big lemon!

Then Don laughed and laughed. For one agonizing moment Anna thought she would cry. Then: "Thank you, Don, and thank the others. It's nice to be remembered."

When Don left her he was immediately joined by a half dozen youths. "What happened?" they asked. "What'd she say?" "Say?" he was full of admiration for Anna. "She's a sport! She said, 'Thank you, Don, and thank the others. It's nice to be remembered.' Gee, she's awfully pretty."

From that day Don began to pay attention to Anna. He walked near her, talked at her, invited her to every conceivable event, but was coldly snubbed in every case. Incidentally, Anna was wearing her hair curled softly about her face. Don persisted in his attentions even after he had graduated from college.

Though she had forgiven the lemon episode, she seldom encouraged him. Finally he left for a position in New York. That was more than a year ago. Meanwhile Anna lived the life of the average American girl.

Now as she sat in the same little room staring happily at a letter and picture in her hand she thought back over the past few years. The third big thing was coming into her life! Don was in a position to get married and wanted her for his wife.

Night Watchman—All the Year Enforced Traffic Rules

FACTS & OPINIONS

"Night Watchman—All the Year" Voters of Bethel Village Corporation will decide next Monday evening on the merits of the question of having a night police officer through the winter. There are strong arguments on both sides, and it is likely that the opposition will show more interest and morvotes. The Citizen has favored year-round employment of an officer for several years. The desirability of such a person in the summer now seems to be taken for granted. In the winter if a large part of the village could be covered at intervals the danger of fire would be less. The fire department has a good record which might be lost in one night if a blaze had a half hour's start.

The all-year watchman may not be wanted at present, but every village citizen should read the warrant on page one and attend the meeting next Monday.

Somebody is wondering what would happen if the employers in the country all went out a strike every time some trivial thing came up that didn't please them and every time they didn't make as much money as they thought they ought to make. Employees probably do not give much thought to that side of the question.—Bridgton News

All any American citizen has to do is to look abroad at any country—Russia, Germany, Italy, or elsewhere—to know that we can do without their theories of government in this country. We want no regimentation of farmers, of industry, or of labor. We can do without dictatorships.

One of the most notable investigative jobs that is being done in this country, therefore, is that of the House Committee headed by Representative Dies of Texas.
Charged with the investigation of "un-American activities," the Committee for the first time has spread publicly upon the records of Congress the extent to which the Communist Internationale has infiltrated into American patriotic, peace, organized labor, and political movements. It has shown how the Communists set up dummy organizations under high-sounding, patriotic names such as their "League for Peace and Democracy," to front for doctrines designed to overthrow the American Constitution.

Now the Dies committee is set-

THE PARISH LETTER OXFORD COUNTY UNITED PARISH

Mr. Bickett of Hooksett, N. H., was in town calling on different people and looking over the Parish work Monday; and on a week from Sunday, he will be in the Parish to speak as a candidate. At that time we will probably have just two services; one at North Waterford and the other at Center Lovell.

Remember that on Thursday evening of this week; and also on Friday evening there will be suppers; first, on Thursday evening at East Stoneham; and then on Friday evening at Center Lovell.

Now we come to Sunday's program. Just remember the hour of services, East Stoneham, 10 a. m.; Waterford, 10; No. Waterford, 11:15; Albany, 11:15; Center Lovell, 10:30. Dr. Zerby of Bates College will be the speaker at our Sunday services. The Sunday School will meet as arranged for locally.

Sunday evening the Parish Young People are invited to Bridgton for a Young People's Rally. Mrs. Mc-Clure, a missionary from China, will speak. This promises to be a very interesting meeting. We feel sure, also, that others would like to hear Mrs. McClure. We know they will be welcome. We hope that some of those with cars will be willing to make it possible for more of the young people to be present. The Young People are asked to bring their lunch.

Monday evening will be marked by the first meeting of the Outing Club for this season. The meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Deane Hodges.

A Circle Supper again at North Waterford! Tuesday evening! The Circle will be entertained this week by Mrs. Edith Brown, president, and her helpers. Following the Circle Supper there will be a very important meeting of the Finance and Executive Committees of the Parish. We believe we are also invited to the North Waterford Parsonage for this meeting.

Don't forget the harvest supper Wednesday night at the Church Vestry at Hunt's Corner.

It is expected that Gaylord Douglass will speak at the Four Point Orange meeting to be held at No.
Waterford Friday night.

The Center Lovell Men's Club had a very interesting evening Monday of this week. The occasion was Ladies' Night. A delicious supper was served by the men, which was an added proof to the claim that the men certainly do know how to cook. The meeting was called to order after supper, and the officers for the following year were elected. William Dallinger was re-elected president of the Club; and the secretary and treasurer, Mr.

Kilgour, was also reelected. The speaker of the evening was Mr.
Peckham, who spoke most interestingly of his unusual experiences on a trip around the world. He illustrated his lecture with pictures he had taken. It was a delightful evening; and a large number was present.

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

You will go a long ways, before you will find a person who comes closer to having both feet on the ground—at the same time—than this here old Soreback down there in Virginia—Mr. Carter Glass.

And I just see in the paper where the Old Boy, he describes a liberal, as any person who is willing to spend the other guy's money. When this old democrat talks, he says something.

And he is not like the bird who was making a speech, and 2 tellers were listening. And one teller who could not hear very well, he leaned over and he whispered, what is this bird talking about? And the teller who could hear, he whispers back, he don't say.

I have nothing against any Northerner—I don't have much against anybody but when it comes to words of wisdom, you will hunt high and low to excel some of these southern gents, like Mr. Glass and this here Mr. Pat Harrison of the Magnolia state, and old Texas Garner, etc. We need more of these 2 sisters. Otherwise, we are O. K.

We been star-gazing, and listening too much to the Katydid.

Yours, with the low down, JO SERRA

The Waterford Men's Club is hoping to have a howling team this season; and are planning to begin practice at once.

The Parish Young People held a well attended Social at the Vestry at Hunt's Corner last Friday evening. The evening's program was in charge of Miss Christine Pinkham, ably assisted by other Albany Young People. The Sunday evening meeting was led by Miss Edith Pike, assisted by Alice Morse.
Twenty-six were present. The number seems to be growing. The Executive Committee of the Society will meet Saturday afternoon at the Parsonage at North Waterford to talk over other plans.

Farm Chats

Average annual agricultural imports into the United States since 1929 have been approximately one-half those of the period 1924-29.

Nearly two-thirds of the lamb consumed in the United States is sold in the northeastern states, although this section produces less than five percent of the nation's lamb crop.

Farmers spent about 68 million dollars for electricity in 1936, about $65 for each farm using electricity.
In New England the average monthly electricity bill of farmers in 1936 was about one-third lower than in 1910-14.

GOULD ACADEMY

Gould Travels to South Paris On Saturday the Gould Academy team will travel to South Paris to do battle with Willey's South Paris Gridiron performers. Norway and South Paris played to a scoreless tie two weeks ago while last Saturday Norway defeated Gould 6-0.
The Gould team however hopes to be able to show considerable more this week than it did against Norway. South Paris-Gould games are duplicates of Norway-Gould games in intense rivalry so fans may expect anything to happen on Saturday. The outcome appears to be pretty much of a "toss-up" with a real football game in view.

The girls' Horseshoe Teams for 1938 have been elected as follows: First Team, Seniors, Helen Lowe and Virginia Chapman; Juniors, Madelyn Bird and Edna Young; Sophomores, Joyce Abbott and Pauline Bean; Freshmen, Elizabeth Gorman and Madelene Jordan. Sec-

The SNAPSHOT GUILD TABLE-TOP HUMORETTES

Breakfast! A simple, humorous idea, simply and neatly told. The spotlight is a two-inch hole in a piece of cardboard, held in front of an amateur floodlight bulb. Exposure 1/2 second at f.16.

MOST amateur camera workers wait until they find a picture situation ready-made before they snap the shutter. Others have found that they do not have to wait—that they can often create a picture opportunity by selecting and arranging materials already at hand.

Still-life studies, of fruit, of flowers, of the play of light on textures and glassware, are all examples of this creative method and a still-life expertly done can possess extraordinary beauty. Still-lives, however, require a keen sense of pictorial composition, judgment in lighting and a willingness to arrange and rearrange until everything is exactly right.

"Table-top" photography permits more latitude, particularly when the central idea is humorous. Here the emphasis is on telling a story, rather than developing an ideal arrangement of lights and shadows and textures. In consequence, the "table-top" worker can limit his labor to the story-telling essentials, and let supplementary considerations go.

Small toys, comical in themselves, are easy subjects to work with.
Dolls are also convenient to use.
The clever worker can construct funny figures from vegetables—for example, a carrot appropriately dressed and equipped with tiny wire spectacles can become a very presentable old lady. Cotton and wire pipe cleaners can be bent and combined into interesting action pictures—an instance would be adagio dancers on a stage. Good characters can also be made of modeling wax—and often the cruder the modeling the funnier the effect.

Scenic materials, when needed, are easy to get. Fluffy cotton makes excellent snow; small twigs make good trees; light brown sugar serves nicely for sand and a piece of glass laid over a dark cloth will do for water. Doll furniture is useful in realistic indoor sets.

Some amateurs build elaborate miniature stage settings for their "table-tops" just as if they were producing a professional motion picture. This can be fascinating work and often well worth while.
But it is not imperative and can be avoided simply by selecting a story idea that does not demand realistic background.

"Table-topping" requires that the photographer work fairly close up to his subject. He can do this in two ways: either by using a portrait attachment over the lens of his camera or by using a camera with double-extension bellows. Cameras of the latter type will allow him to photograph small objects in their actual size and they usually have groundglass backs which help in focusing and arranging the picture.
When a subject shows up too small on a negative, it is good practice to have it enlarged, with surplus margins masked out.

Try "table-topping." You'll like it.

LISTEN TO THIS

By TOM FIZDALE

When you hear a number on the Saturday Night Serenade over CBS, you can be certain that it's there because a lot of people want to hear it and not because of guesswork. The music is selected only after carefully checking the fan mail, watching the fluctuations of the best-selling records, sheet music, selections of leading bands and a host of other listener preference indications throughout the U. S. A. Gustave Haenschen, brilliant conductor, together with singing stars Mary Eastman, Bill Perry and Emil Cote, director of the Serenaders, then get together and build the show you hear.

Alice Frost

Gail Henshaw, heard with beautiful Alice Frost in the Big Sister program on CBS, has the distinction of being radio's only office boy from the distaff side. Some time ago, the actor who was to play the part of the office boy missed the show and Gail read his part. Listeners liked her so well that she continues with that as well as her own role.

Candid camera fans shooting pictures during broadcasts have given many radio directors the jitters because microphones are so sensitive the clicks of the shutters might easily be picked up and mar the program. The cast of Your Family and Mine have solved the problem. They have invited fans to take all the pictures they want during rehearsals—but broadcast pictures are taboo.

Bill Johnstone, The Shadow of the Mutual network, beat out 45 aspirants for his role which is prized because it was the vehicle for the rise to fame last season of Orson Welles, brilliant young Mercury Theatre star. It was doubly lucky for Johnstone because it put an end to a steady run of villain parts—and he's really a nice guy at heart.

Comedians have thrown away the traditional joke book for the front page of today's newspaper, says Bob Hope, comedy star of his own Tuesday night hit variety show. "The American people today have such an intelligent grasp of news events," asserts Hope, "that comedy keyed to the news goes over with them." Hope illustrates his point by recalling that gags covering everything from the energetic doings of the First Lady to the latest football upset and the upswing hair dress have been laugh producers on his show.

Bob Hope

Saddest radio actor in Chicago at the approach of fall is Spencer Bentley, Bob of the famous Betty and Bob dramas. Bentley, a dyed-in-the-wool yachtsman, has lived aboard his bridge-deck cruiser all summer but his wife has vowed that they will hie themselves back to a hotel when the first snow flies.

The most fortunate students in the country are those currently serving apprenticeships in Max Reinhardt's famed workshop in Hollywood. Studying for the drama, they are given weekly opportunities by the great director to appear in minor roles in support of Adolphe Menjou and famous guest stars on the Wednesday Star Theatre programs over CBS—the outstanding new hit of the fall season.

Chester Stratton of the popular new serial drama, Her Honor, Nancy James, has one vivid memory of the recent troubled days in Europe. Playing on another CBS program, the announcer, in the middle of the broadcast, suddenly started a tirade against the cast. Stratton was horrified for a few minutes, thinking the word-slinger had gone berserk. After a while he discovered the program had been cut off the air for a European broadcast.

Wilfred Matheson of the Central Maine Power Co. engineering department, Augusta, and Supt. H. L. Jackson of Norway were in town on business Tuesday.

Mrs. T. F. Vail, daughter Eleanor, and Frank Parsons went to Wellesley Hills, Mass., Wednesday to attend the graduation exercises of Miss Mildred Vail.

Mrs. H. L. Holt, Mrs. May Kimball, Mrs. Bessie Sloane and Mrs. Ida Burke were guests at Elliott Rich's last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Carter of Sanmaur, Que., and Mrs. Donald Johnston of Arlington, Mass., have been in town on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Lue Bates, a former resident of this town, and Mr. and Mrs. Barker and daughter of Lewiston and Harold Bates of Rockland were calling on friends in town Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Robertson of Waterbury, Conn., were in town for the week-end. Mr. Robertson's mother, Mrs. Cora Robertson, accompanied them home to spend the winter.

Miss Winona Chaplin, student nurse at the C. M. G. Hospital, Lewiston, was the week-end guest of Mrs. L. Adeline Fish and family. Miss Chaplin leaves for Providence, R. I., Nov. 1, for three months extensive work in the hurricane and flood area.

Peggy Hanscom with Xanthippe, in the children's class, which was judged only on the handling of the dog, won third prize, which was a box of candy.

Word has been received in Bethel of the death of Alonzo McCrillis, father of Mrs. Howard Hunt, at the family summer home, McCrillis Farm, North Sandwich, N. H. Mrs. Hunt was called home on account of her father's serious illness at the beginning of last week. He was taken to the Laconia, N. H., Hospital and underwent an operation and was reported to be making satisfactory progress toward recovery, until word came of some complication that resulted in his death early Tuesday morning. The funeral will be held at his home on Friday. Rev. Herbert T. Wallace will conduct the service.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
Special Prosecutor John Lindsay, a law professor on a Sabbatical leave, makes little headway with his racket investigation because racket victims refuse to talk. Eugene Ferguson, a prominent citizen, is the man behind the racket, but John sympathetically hides this fact from Paul Ferguson, the racketeer's son, who is John's chief assistant prosecutor. Jerry, John's wife, with whom he is supposed to be on a European holiday instead of holding an investigation, goes to Mrs. Butler, wife of one of the witnesses, and persuades her to get her husband to testify. En route to John's office, Butler is murdered. When the City Council washes its hands of John, the prosecutor decides as a private citizen with a staff of former honor students and rookie policemen. The crime wave is increasing every day. John, in a desperate

Chapter Six
When the movie projector stopped, John glanced speculatively at Frankie and suggested that she make believe she was a reporter once again and write the story of the past six years of her career. The prosecutor promised her a bonus if he liked the story.
"What's the bonus?" asked Frankie.
"Your life," John offered. "I'll guarantee to save you from the chair — if you'll give us a signed story that'll help get convictions." Frankie looked toward Ferguson. "What about him? I won't write a line if I'll send him to the chair."
"I promise you it won't."

"You talk as if I were going to die pretty soon," Paul tells John. (Directed by Otto Kruger and Edward G. Robinson)
"You'll give him a break, too?" persisted the girl.
"Yes, but not on your account. I'm thinking of somebody else."
"I know."
As John opened the door to the study, where the typewriter was, Frankie and Ferguson clung to each other and kissed lingeringly. "It's all right, kid," Ferguson said. "Go ahead."
After Frankie went into the study, Ferguson listened for a moment to the clacking of the typewriter, then said to John:
"That story she's writing is rather — it's for tomorrow's paper?"
"That depends," murmured the prosecutor. "You know, Gene, some of the best stories never get printed." He leaned back in his chair.
"And now I want to talk to you about Paul. I'll be glad to have somebody like Paul take my place. When he gets through putting a few dozen crooks in jail, he'll be in line for big things. Paul can be the next district attorney. But he has only one handicap — your money. Have you ever made out a

THREAT OF FIRE ADDED TO TROUBLES OF WOODS OWNERS

The emergency office of the U. S. Forest Service in Boston has asked the assistance of the Maine Extension Service in calling attention to the extreme fire hazard which now exists in the hurricane blow-down timber area of Maine.

The Forest Service urges that every precaution be taken to prevent any fire from getting into the woods or down timber areas as they are now highly inflammable because of hot, dry weather. If fires start, the Forest Service warns, large areas may be devastated.

A. D. Nutting, University of Maine extension forester, urges that farmers keep a close lookout and take unusual care in protecting their woods. He says that local committees organized to handle protection and salvage problems in the blow-down areas can assist by advising citizens of the situation and by sending out warnings of the grave fire situation.

The Forest Service, cooperating with the State Forestry Department, also urges that individuals and groups be on the alert for fires and mobilize for action. In the event of fire they should immediately get in touch with the proper local officials.
